The Chemistry of Process Development

Edited by Pat N Confalone, John A Grosso & Ralph N Landau

688 Pat N Confalone, John A Grosso & Ralph N Landau
Editorial overview

690 Erik Dienemann & Rich Osifchin
The role of chemical engineering in process development and optimization

699 David J am Ende & Michael J Preigh
Process optimization with in situ technologies

707 Paul I Barton
Solvent recovery opportunities in the pharmaceutical industry

714 Kamalesh K Sirkar
Application of membrane technologies in the pharmaceutical industry

723 Sridhar Desikan, Stephen R Anderson, Paul A Meenan & Pascal H Toma
Crystallization challenges in drug development: Scale-up from laboratory to pilot plant and beyond

734 Alan J Rein, Steven M Donahue & Mark A Pavlosky
In situ FTIR reaction analysis of pharmaceutical-related chemistry and processes

743 Michael J Cannarsa, Tetsuo Uno & Cate Larsen
High-throughput screening applied to drug synthesis process development

750 Guang Qu, Alan McClelland & J Fraser Wright
Scaling-up production of recombinant AAV vectors for clinical applications

756 Xi Chen, Przemyslaw Kowal & Peng George Wang
Large-scale enzymatic synthesis of oligosaccharides

764 Jaan A Pesti & Robert DiCosimo
Recent progress in enzymatic resolution and desymmetrization of pharmaceuticals and their intermediates

783 Rodney L Parsons Jr
Development of commercially viable enantioselective processes for HIV-1 NNRTIs

793 Michael K O'Brien & Benoit Vanasse
Asymmetric processes in the large-scale preparation of chiral drug candidates

807 James E Resek, Xiu C Wang & Ashok V Bhatia
Highlights of recent research on the synthesis of ketolide antibiotics

818 David M Barnes
Development of an asymmetric Michael addition in a practical synthesis of ABT-546

825 John M Brown & Ralf Giernoth
New mechanistic aspects of the asymmetric homogenous hydrogenation of alkenes

Indexes

Complete contents, author and subject indexes to Volume 3 appear at the end of this issue.

The cover

Solvent recovery opportunities in the pharmaceutical industry (featured in the review by Paul I Barton).
