

Reach influential decision-makers in the international research universe

Scientific Direct Postal Addresses

Scientific Direct™ is a customized list service from Thomson Scientific that provides names and up-to-date postal addresses for over 500,000 of the world's leading published scientific researchers. It enables you to select a mailing list based on numerous qualifying criteria, including: academic and non-academic names, scientific disciplines or subject categories, countries, states, SCFs, date of publication, and even journal title Selections.

Information specialists at Thomson Scientific will work with you to develop your individualized mailing list based on a profile that you help create. Selection criteria you can use include terms that are relevant to your product or service, such as keywords, journal titles, subject categories, and authors. Your profile is then run against the entire Thomson Scientific database of researchers who have published in the journal literature within the past 52 weeks. Each match identified by the system is added to your customized Scientific Direct mailing list, which when completed, will help you reach your most qualified prospects.

Subject Categories (partial listing; over 500 available)

- Agriculture
- Biotechnology
- Chemistry
- Economics
- Social & Behavioral Sciences
- Engineering & Technology
- Environmental Sciences
- Life Sciences
- Medicine
- Pharmacology & Medicinal Chemistry
- Physics

Source

The Thomson Scientific database of active researchers publishing in about 8,500 international scientific journals.

List Demographics (approximate)

40% North America
60% International